ABOUT THE POSITION

As an accomplished and visionary academic leader, the Chair of the Department of Education and Human Development is primarily responsible for providing leadership and support to ensure quality, growth, and innovation in the department's teaching, scholarship, public service, and undergraduate and graduate programs. The preferred start date for the position is July or August 2024; however, a start date of January 2025 will also be considered. The successful candidate's record would merit tenure at the rank of Full Professor in the College at the time of appointment or demonstrate a professional appointment consistent with appointment as Full Professor with tenure in the Department of Education and Human Development. Consistent with Clemson University's public, land-grant mission, the College of Education is especially focused on serving underserved schools and communities. The successful candidate will have demonstrated experience leading and engaging an accomplished, multi-disciplinary faculty committed to fulfilling this mission through research, teaching, and public service. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications. Department chairs are formally evaluated through the process described in Clemson's Faculty Manual.

Responsibilities include:

- Articulate a vision for the department by nurturing and building consensus with faculty, staff, and external stakeholders.
- Lead the implementation of the department's strategic plan in alignment with the college's strategic plan and the university's strategic plan, Clemson Elevate.
- Supervise the department's portfolio, including course and program curriculum, scheduling, faculty workload, and research and public service.
- Develop budgets in concert with the Dean and leadership team and allocate such funds for infrastructure and strategic purposes.
- Recruit, mentor, retain, and annually evaluate departmental faculty and staff.
- Oversee faculty hiring, reappointments, tenure and promotion, and termination.
- Provide leadership in student recruitment, student advising, and student placement.
- Mentor and support the professional growth and development of departmental faculty, staff, and doctoral students.
- Manage administrative staff effectively with an understanding of the University's policies and how staff's expectations, experiences, and career objectives differ from faculty in terms of performance, evaluation, and feedback.
- Create an inclusive and productive department culture.
- Ensure faculty participation in annual program reporting, internal and external program review, and unit-wide accreditation with CAEP (unit-wide) and CACREP (counselor education program specific).
- Arrange meetings of the departmental faculty; meet with the departmental advisory committee and appropriate constituent and advisory groups for the disciplines.
- Represent the department on the college's leadership team and the university's Organization of Academic Department Chairs (OADC).
- Collaborate with the department chairs of Educational and Organizational Leadership Development (EOLD) and Teaching & Learning (TL) and associate deans in the college.
- Serve as the liaison between the department and the offices of Marketing and Communications, Undergraduate Studies, Graduate Studies, Assessment and Accreditation, and Field and Clinical Outreach and Partnerships.
- Identify trends and challenges in education and be able to formulate plans to address these trends.
- Work with relevant organizations and cultivate partnerships to enhance programs, research, and public service.
- Engage in teaching and/or advising graduate students.
- Engage in research, publication, external funding, and other scholarly activities.
- Perform other duties as assigned by the Dean.

Qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in any of the academic disciplines of the College.
- Record of scholarship supporting tenure eligibility at the rank of Full Professor in Clemson University's College of Education.
- Academic and professional experience among these skills/competencies:
  - in academic administration (e.g., academic program leader and/or department chair)
  - with funded grants and publication
  - with undergraduate and graduate programs
  - with curriculum development, innovative teaching methods, instructional design for various settings (e.g., online and hybrid), and assessment
  - with field and clinical placement
  - in program assessment and accreditation
  - in effective oral and written communication skills
  - in collaboration with others in a team-oriented environment
  - in a dynamic work environment incorporating multiple tasks and adjusting to issues as needed
  - with a commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive professional environment

Preferred Qualifications:

- Experience increasing extramural funding and scholarly output.
- Experience designing innovative programs, including online and hybrid or hyflex teaching/learning models.
- A record of scholarship, outreach, and leadership in areas of strategic importance, including: Rural Education, Early Childhood Education, Counselor Education, Reading/Literacy Education, Special Education, Learning Sciences, and/or STEM Education (including AI, VR, multimodal/digital literacies, computational thinking, or robotics).
- Demonstrated commitment and experience working with underserved communities and diverse populations; promoting inclusive excellence evident in teaching approaches, research initiatives, and service activities.
